Without permission he hastened to the house, saw her die soon after.

IS THIS A TIME TO DANCE?

The breath of evening sweeps the plain, And sheds its perfume in the dell— But on its wings are sounds of pain, Sad tenes that drown the ocho's swell; And yet we hear a miriful call, Fair pleasure smiles with beaming glance, asy music sounds in the joyous hall— Oh God? is this a time to dance !

Sad notes, as if a spirit alghed, In awful agony and pain-Our friends we know there suffering lay, Our brothers, too, perchance, And in represented accents say— Loved ones, is this a time to dance?

Oh lift your festal robes on high ! The human gore that flows around Will state their hass with crimson dye; And loader let your mosts sound To drown the dying warrier's cry i Let sparkling wine your joy enhance, Forgot that blood has inged its dye, And quicker arge the maniac's dance,

But stop I the floor beneath your feet devery strain of music awest, its forth a dying soldier's groun; are I who have brothers dear and to every battle's chance, thack Remorse no forms of fear, To ight you from the heartless dance ? Go fileg your festal robes away ! Go don the mourner's suble well ! Go bow before your God and pray!
If yot your prayers may night avail,
Go face the fearful form of Death!

And then, for once, with trothful breath, Answer, Is this a time to dance?
